FALLING IN LINE FOR THE MARKETING PLAN

Woodford county joined Carroll, Bourbon and Montgomery, Friday, in the list of Central Kentucky counties that have gone over the top in the campaign for signatures to the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association contract, but Chairman Robert S. Walker said the campaign would go on in Woodford until the entire crop is signed up to the present pool.

More than a hundred acres were signed up in Scott county by men who resided in Georgetown, but have farms out in the county, following a meeting in Georgetown, at which Chairman Reuben F. Offutt presided. The visit of Congressman Cantrell to Stamping Ground resulted in a number of signatures and his address at Sadierville also was productive of favorable results, though no figures were available.

A. L. Ferguson, former vice-president of the Old Burley Tobacco Society, warned the growers of Scott not to be misled by propaganda circulated against the co-operative marketing plan. He declared that agents of "Big Four" among the buyers, the four leading manufacturing corporations, had been active in spreading certain reports and he related some of these to the crowd. He said it was false information that was being circulated and he urged that it be considered and the actual facts learned before the grower made up his mind as to the course he should finally follow in the matter of signing or staying out of the association.

BOURBON GUN CLUB

The Bourbon Gun Club held an all-day shoot on the Club grounds in East Paris. The event followed the all-day shoot held on the Hilltop Gun Club grounds, near Austerlitz. The following were winners of the trophies: Woodfolk Henderson, the Lafayette Hotel Trophy, a silver pitcher; Alfred Clay, the long run trophy, a silver loving cup; Tom Hinkle, Consolation Trophy, two silver drinking cups; Roxie Davis, the B. O. A. Trophy, a hammered silver loving cup; J. A. Groves, ("Black Diamond Jim"), the Professional High Gun Trophy, a fine Bourbon county cooked ham. Jim said it sure did look good to him. While the shooters and others were enjoying the bountiful luncheon, a heavy rain and wind storm came up, lasting about an hour. BLIND CHILD RECOVERS SIGHT ON EVE OF OPERATION

(Louisville Herald, Aug. 31)

(An Explanation)

How sight was restored to 5-year-old Reba Jackson, suddenly blinded while at play, just as the child was being prepared to undergo a surgical operation in hope of relief from the mysterious cause of her condition, was told by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Jackson, at her home, 311 Central Ave., yesterday. The touch of a doctor's hands, the "cracking" sound of bones snapped into place, relieving pressure from a hidden nerve, and the blind child saw, the mother said.

"I'm blind. I can't see you, mother!" Reba cried, staggering into her home August 12 from her play. The little hands were feeling along the walls and staircase. No one knew what had happened except that darkness had closed down on a pair of bright eyes.

Physicians and surgeons consulted and decided an operation would reveal and relieve the difficulty, as the symptoms indicated "the forming of pus behind the seat of vision. Two openings in the skull over the temples would prove a drain and perhaps give back the lost vision. Then friends bethought them of a practitioner, who, with his hands, they said, sometimes cured mysterious troubles found due to unnatural pressure on nerves, while the entire congregation of Mrs. Jackson's church offered special prayers for the afflicted child and her distressed mother.

Mrs. Jackson summoned the practitioner the day before Reba was to undergo the operation. "He just cracked several vertebrae near the neck into place," the mother said. "Reba thought then she saw a light flash across her eyes, but could not distinguish objects." Next day the nurse came from the hospital to take her there.

"Mother, what are you doing? My eyes are opening—I can see daylight. Why, you are rubbing your cheek," the child cried. Her sight was restored. The nurse went back to the hospital and a happy woman hugged her baby, who could once more see. Mrs. Jackson is a widow with three children and conducts a rooming house next door to the South Louisville police station.

This article appeared in The Herald Monday morning and was widely discussed during the day. Much speculation was indulged in as to how, and by whom, my little girl's vision was restored. Many seemed to get the impression that it was Christian Science or some form of "laying on of hands" or a faith cure, as I had mentioned to the reporter that the entire congregation of my church had prayed for Reba. I did not intend to convey the thought that my daughter's eyes were miraculously restored—while it seemed almost like a miracle. I believe in giving credit where credit is due, and I believe the public is entitled to know the truth about this case as it has been presented in somewhat of a mysterious way in the newspaper. Dr. W. H. Dunn, a Chiropractor, of 216 Norton Building, adjusted the bones in Reba's neck and her vision returned. She was so completely blind that she could not distinguish the brightest light. Words can not express my appreciation for what Chiropractic has done for Reba, and I am publishing this so that the public may know to whom belongs the credit for restoring my little daughter's sight. Dr. Dunn used nothing but his hands to perform the operation and it was done in a few seconds.

Gratefully,
MRS. MARGARET JACKSON,

WILL OF JOHN T. COLLINS PROBATED

The last will and testament of the late John T. Collins, banker, farmer and tobacco man, who died at his home near North Middletown some time ago, was filed Friday in the office of County Clerk Pearce Paton for probate. The instrument, which bore date of Oct. 24, 1918, with a codicil added on July 16, 1921, was witnessed by John W. Jones and Frank W. Sledd.

Under provisions of the will Mr. Collins' widow, Mrs. Mary Collins, and son, William Collins, were named, as executors, which was confirmed by their appointment by County Judge George Batterton. The will bequeaths his entire estate to his wife, Mrs. Mary Collins, with instructions to "make a fair and just division among our children, when, in her judgment, it seems best." The text of the will is as follows:

"Realizing the uncertainty of life, I make and declare this my last will and testament, it being the only will ever made by me.

"First, I want all my just debts and funeral expenses paid as promptly as possible.

"Second, I will to my wife, Mary Collins, all property of every kind, both real and personal, of which I am possessed at the time of my death. I do this because of the uncertainty naturally attached to return of my son, William, from the war, and I trust my wife to make a fair and just division of the estate among our children, when, in her judgment, it seems best.

"Third, I appoint my wife executor of this will and request the court to require no bond of her. Written with my own hand this, the 24th day of October, 1918.

"JOHN T. COLLINS."

"I John T. Collins, of Bourbon county, Kentucky, on the 16th day of July, 1921, do declare this codicil to be a part of my last will and testament, in manner and form following:

"Whereas, In paragraph three of my last will and testament I did appoint my wife, Mary Collins, as executor of my last will and testament, I do now revoke said paragraph three, and do appoint my wife, Mary Collins, and my son, William Collins, as executrix and executor of this my last will and testament, and I further direct that they shall not be required to give bond or security for the proper discharge of their duties.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto subscribed my name on the day and year above mentioned, in the presence of John W. Jones and F. W. Sledd, whom I have requested to become attesting witnesses hereto.

"JNO. T. COLLINS."

COMMERCIAL CLUB DELEGATES

ATTEND ROAD MEETING

Through representations made by the Bourbon county delegation at the meeting of the Dixie Highway Association, held in Cincinnati, last Friday, a strong argument was advanced urging the adoption of the present Bluegrass Highway, running from Cincinnati through Falmouth, Cynthiana and Paris, as part of the contemplated Dixie Highway system.

The Paris party was composed of the following ten members of the Paris Commercial Club: Judge Denis Dundon, Mayor E. B. January, Secretary Wm. E. Hacker, County Judge George Batterton, Fred M. Fister, Wade H. Whitley, James Day, John F. Davis, B. J. Santen and M. Peale Collier. Judge Dundon acted as spokesman for the delegation, and pointed out to the directors that the present Bluegrass route is a safer and more scenic route between Cincinnati and Lexington, and in much better condition. He was followed by representatives from Cynthiana and Falmouth, who also urged adoption of this highway as part of the Dixie Highway. The Paris representatives spoke very highly of the hospitality shown the delegation during their stay.

BURGLARIOUS BURGLAR BAFLED.

The attempt of a burglar to effect an entrance into the grocery store of L. R. Bramlette, at the corner of Main and Bank Row, was frustrated early Sunday morning by the timely appearance of Charles Peddicord, who rooms in the two story building on the opposite side of Main street. Hearing a peculiar noise Mr. Peddicord went to the window of his room and saw a man endeavoring to force the door on the Main street side of the grocery. He called out to know what was going on there, when the would-be burglar fled.

An investigation showed the burglar had cut a hole in the screen door large enough to get a hook through. He then pulled up the fastening of the screen door and was in the act of prying out the plate glass in the door when Mr. Peddicord discovered him. This is the seventh attempt at burglary in Paris in a few weeks, several being eminently successful.

BASEBALL NOTES

Lowering skies, rain and a general tendency on the part of the elements to make a disagreeable afternoon, did not dampen the ardor of baseball fans Sunday. Fans to the number of nine hundred gathered at the Second street ball park to witness the contest between the Paris Ruggles and the Centerville team, the former winning by a score of 12 to 2.

The game was featured by fine fielding and batting by Mann and Woods, and the pitching of Campanari, the Ruggles crack twirler, who struck out eleven Centerville batsmen. The batteries were: For Paris, Campanari and Carter; for Centerville, Carter, Berryman and Ray. The game was umpired by Neal and Williams. The score by innings:

Paris . . . 230 101 05x—12 16 2
Centerville. 000 100 001—2 5 3

A great game, a real game, is expected this (Tuesday) afternoon, when the Christian and Methodist teams in the Church League hook up for a contest at the Second street park. Both teams have been whetting their knives, figuratively speaking, for each other's scalp, and the palefaces may expect to see some hair-raising stunts pulled off on the diamond. The Methodist team is leading in the League race, having won two games and lost none, the Christian team taking second place with two games won and one lost. These games are drawing large crowds, and the boys are putting up excellent contests that are growing daily in favor with the fans. Attend this game and see "the greatest teams ever" in operation!
